THE UNIVERSITY of MISSISSIPPI

Professional Development and Lifelong Learning

NASA Mississippi Space Grant Consortium in partnership with the Center for Mathematics and Science Education (CMSE) is hosting the NASA Space Grant Consortium's Annual Teachers Conference. This VIRTUAL conference is designed for middle school math and science teachers by providing them with opportunities to engage in mathematics and science professional development sessions and activities. This conference is facilitated by NASA Aerospace Education Specialists and Center for Mathematics and Science Education.

All Mississippi middle school math and science teachers are invited to attend the 2021 conference.

Teachers who are seeking to attend the conference for the first time will have priority. Conference attendees will be eligible for a $75.00 stipend and Continuing Education Units (CEUs) upon completion of the entire conference. Teachers who do not participate in all sessions through the end of the conference will not receive a completion certificate or be eligible for the CEUs or the stipend payment.

You are encouraged to register early and pay the registration fee in the amount of $50 in order to secure your seat since space is limited to 80 teachers.
